

Blame Somewhere.

The Reno Journal says:

The officials were informed on the 22nd of March last by H. H. Beck, a responsible citizen, that one James Heney had over $20,000 worth of gold, 989 fine melted in Reno and disposed of on his account; that the officials claimed to know Heney's whereabouts at that time; that twelve days after that, to wit, on April 2nd, Heney appeared before a Notary Public in the State of California and to him personally known, and acknowledged and signed a power of attorney. Now will anybody be good enough to explain why Mr. Heney was not arrested? Some people have opinions, and express them too, on this subject and possibly the facts may change them. It does look a little strange that with Government detectives running hither and yon and cognizant of what is above stated, that Mr. Heney should be permitted to get out of the country.

It is quite evident that someone is to blame for the fact that Heney was not at once arrested and at the trial, the blame of his being allowed to escape should be pretty definitely located.

Holding Back Trumps.

The Carson correspondent of the Journal (Alf Doten) says:

The prosecution thus far has not made much of a case against Jones, apparently not enough to hold him to appear before the U. S. Grand Jury, but it is said that the leading trumps are held back, and will be played effectively at the resumption of the examination before U. S. Commissioner Edwards on the 10th instant. I am credibly informed that Heney, the witness wanted most of all, is now in South Africa, yet perhaps he is not, and will be produced at the proper and decisive time. Henry Piper will also come to the front from Berkeley if wanted. Government Secret Service Harris, the complaining witness in the case, will also be on hand.

The Report Endorsed.

Inspector Mason who represents the U. S. Government in the Mint investigation case, yesterday secured a complete file of the APPEAL, containing the report of the hearing of the case of the U. S. Government vs. John E. Jones, before the Commissioner. He said the APPEAL's report of the entire proceedings was the nearest correct of any paper published and he wanted them for future reference. This is a rather good endorsement of the correctness of the APPEAL's report and ought to set at rest any further controversy in the matter.

The Drummer License.

The officers who arrested and convicted the cigar drummer Brock, claim that they have a Supreme Court decision to the effect that when a man sells goods by sample and the goods are not in the State at the time he solicits orders, that he cannot be compelled to pay a license, but if the goods are once brought into the State they are within the jurisdiction of the State and subject to its laws.

The claim is that Brock already had the goods he contracted to deliver inside the State, when he took orders.

Politely Declined.

Yesterday Trenmor Coffin the attorney for Jones applied to Jewett Adams, Superintendent of the Mint, for some bars of bullion as he wanted to examine them and see where the shortage was. His request was denied by Mr. Adams and Mr. Mason endorsed his action. Coffin then had subpoenas issued directing Adams to bring the bars into Court.

The students of Berkeley have published a book in which the peculiarities of the faculty are treated with merciless humor and sarcasm. The publication was the work of about a dozen boys and girls, and the professors want them all hung before Duran swings.

The Republican organs so far are silent on the question of the legality of the action of the Board of School Trustees, who have spent over $2,000 of the people's money, in direct violation of Article 2, Section 5, of the Nevada laws.

After Mr. Harris has personally informed the Tribune editor that his report of his testimony was wrong, the Tribune still insists that it knows more about it than Mr. Harris, who was there.

One thousand papers have joined the anti-silver syndicate and will use "sound money" editorials, which they can assert without cost, furnished by the New York goldmen.
